Yesteryear's trend here today.

Today, a broad range of heritage products are commonly used in many facets of construction, from the traditional renovation markets through to modern housing and commercial applications. Many of these products were used to add character and provide decorative enrichment to the houses and this trend continues today.

Finlayson's have a rich history of manufacture and distribution of heritage products, with broad distribution throughout Australian and International markets. All our heritage products are manufactured from clear grade plantation araucaria, with chain of custody certification from Australian Forestry Standard plantations.

Heritage products for external applications are LOSP treated for long life and durability. Enjoy now the beauty of yesteryear...
